Teachers talks bogged down — mediator sought

The Amador Valley Teachers Association will hold a general meeting this afternoon at 3:45 at the Pleasanton Hotel to discuss legal ramifications of possible courses of action, in light of the current stalemate in negotiations.

At the same time, the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association (AVSEA), which represents teachers at Amador, Dublin, Foothill and Valley, is in the process of filing a document with the Educational Employment Relations Board (EERB) in hopes a neutral state conciliator will be assigned within a week.

In a press release issued Friday, Jim Eaton of AVSEA said the group is declaring an impasse in negotiations.

In the process of mediation, according to Eaton, the conciliator may recommend a fact-finding team of three people. "But before that happens," said Eaton, "it is our intention to open as many channels of communication as possible between teachers and the community they serve. We will attempt to meet with any group or individual seeking information about where high school teachers are and why."

AVSEA is placing top priority to securing binding arbitration in the contract settlement, according to Eaton. "Without that, we have no legal way of enforcing adherence to district policies or fulfillment of contracts, claims Eaton. "In effect, it means that in a board - teacher contract, the teacher is held responsible but the board is not."

AVSEA and the district administration negotiating team are also split on the question of agency shop.

This refers to the recognized negotiating agency (AVSEA) being able to collect a service fee from non - members. "How can we justify to members the fact that their dues must now, under law, cover full services to non-members, unless we charge non-members a service fee?," questioned Eaton.

Current salary increase proposal is for 2.5 per cent retroactive to July 1, 1976, plus step increments and dental and health plan payments. Amador district salaries were frozen by administration almost three months ago.

Pleasanton teachers, as represented by the Amador Valley Teachers Association (AVTA), are seeking a 5.5 per cent across the board raise and are still apart from the administration on assignment and tranfer policy, grievance procedure, hours, and agency shop.

Tom Zach, president of the AVTA, claims the unit has offered to accept having an arbitrator sit in on a contract review hearing so that the arbitrator would know how the district and association interpret the contract. Zach claims the district has refused this proposal.

Current practice is that a grievance is adjudicated by a member of the American Arbitration Association, a national alignment of lawyers and professors who have received extensive training and practice in deciding contract disputes.

Waitin' for the wind

Steve Coffin, left, and Bob Payne built this windmill on Sycamore Road and maintain a fine spare parts department for it which they have scrounged from old valley windmills. It's an old "The Aeromotor Chicago" model dates back to the 1920's.

'No changes at fed jail'

PLEASANTON — There are no plans to change the nature of the nearby Federal Correctional Facility, warden William Garrison told the city council last night.

Garrison gave a special presentation at the invitation of mayor Robert Philcox, who had expressed concern over reports that harder, older criminals were being sentenced to the facility.

Most of the inmates are 26 or under and the population will stay in that age bracket, said Garrison. None of the prisoners has a history of prior convictions, he added.

Installation of the second fence was found necessary because the electronic devices used inside the original fence don't work as well as planned, said the warden.

The new barrier will be a chain - link fence with strands of barbed wire on top, which prompted Philcox to quip, "just like the post office," a reference to his earlier opposition to barbed wire on the chain - link fence at the new post office building on Santa Rita Road and Black Avenue.

The second fence at the federal facility does not mean a harder type of criminal will be coming to Pleasanton, said Garrison.

Under questioning from council members, Garrison said no murderers had been assigned to Pleasanton, and officials there have the right to veto any prisoners they feel would not fit into the program.

Current population at the facility ranges from 225 to 250 inmates and will rise to 320 when a third housing unit is built soon.

The facility is operating under a 10-year plan and no change in its philosophy is expected. If a change were contemplated, the federal government would tell the local community, said the warden.

Garrison told the press later that admission of Patricia Hearst to the facility does not reflect a change in policy. The center usually houses a prisoner a maximum two years and Hearst has been sentenced to seven years.

However, she will be eligible for parole in 16 months and already has served a year of her sentence, said Garrison.

The warden said the usual extra surveillance measures used for a government witness will be employed for Hearst while she testifies before the Alameda County Grand Jury about her alleged abduction by Bill and Emily Harris.

Patricia Hearst

Hearst serving time in valley

PLEASANTON (AP) — Patricia Hearst will serve her bank robbery sentence at a modern federal youth center with the relaxed atmosphere of a college campus, a prison official said Monday.

Jim Meko, a public relations officer at the prison here, said the Bureau of Prisons in Washington routinely assigned the newspaper heiress to the two - year - old, $5.3 million facility in rolling hills about 40 miles southeast of San Francisco.

"Plans at this time are to treat her just like the other prisoners," Meko said.

He said criteria used in the assignment were age, residence, criminal sophistication, the offense and the sentence.

Miss Hearst, kidnapped Feb. 4, 1974 by the Symbionese Liberation Army, was sentenced Friday to seven years in prison for participating in a bank robbery while underground with the SLA. She would become eligible for parole in 16 months, but has been credited for one year's time served since her arrest.

Since late last week, she has been held at the Pleasanton facility and transported to a court appearance in San Francisco and a grand jury appearance in Oakland.

Inmates have their own air - conditioned rooms with desk, dresser, toilet and bed.

Murray supt. is petition target

Petitions supporting the "questioning of procedures" of Murray School District Superintendent Donald Williams and containing some 200 signatures were presented to the Murray School board last night.

The closed personnel session was called purportedly to discuss Williams' contract with the district. The meeting is an outgrowth of comments made by trustee Bob Foster at a regular board meeting a week ago Monday.

At that time, Foster heatedly questioned Williams on alleged deletion of comments made by the former on school bus policies. Foster chided Williams for his "editing pen — you do a super job."

Later, Foster pointedly questioned Williams on enrollment reports and the teacher resource program. At the end of the meeting, Foster urged the board to consider a review of Williams' contract with the district by December. December 15 is the date by which a school board must notify a superintendent if they do not intend to renew his contract.

Williams presently has a little less than 1½ years to run on his contract, which is up for renewal yearly.

A spokesman for the Pleasanton group that circulated the petitions over the weekend said it supports questioning as brought to the fore by Foster. The residents say they have been "unhappy ever since facts concerning the March bond issue were misrepresented."

The petitions from the Pleasanton group will not be the last ones to be received by the district this week.

Residents-In-Action will present petitions with an undisclosed number of signatures to Williams on Wednesday morning. The latest are related to Citizens Advisory Committee studies of the conversion (of a school to seventh-eighth grade use) versus status quo question as it could affect Frederiksen School.

The petitions basically ask that the board NOT convert Frederiksen to a seventh-eighth grade facility. It is now in kindergarten through sixth grade use.

Earlier petitions authored by RIA focused on Dublin School, asking that it NOT be converted to seventh-eighth grade use or that K-6 graders be bused out of their home areas. It also urged necessary improvements to Donlon School in Pleasanton. These petitions gained 1,308 signatures.

At their final meeting last week, the CAC completed its report that will be presented to the board next Monday night. The CAC has recommended conversion of Dublin School to a seventh-eighth grade facility.

And while the board is receiving petitions, huddling with Williams and awaiting the critical organizational report from the CAC, it may have another task on the horizon.

That would be the continuing push by Donlon area parents to have the district improve facilities at a school which has the largest enrollment (over 1,200) of any Murray school.

They're tilting in tune with the times

PLEASANTON — Most teenage boys with a mechanical bent ding around with cars, but Bob Payne and Steve Coffin have found a hobby that's more in tune with these ecology - minded times.

They build windmills.

There's plenty of mechanical work to do with old windmills, besides scraping the rust off them. There are ears to oil, pump assemblies to fit together, and wind assembly blades to hammer and solder.

Coffin and Payne have been getting their mechanical kicks by scrounging around the valley's own ranches, including those near Coffin's home on Sycamore Road, buying some parts for cash, digging others out of arroyos, getting donations from a few kind and interested souls.

It took a year of scrounging and a week of building, but a month ago the pair finally erected their masterpiece, its fan blades slicing the air currents 20 feet above the dusty back lot on the Coffins' one acre.

And a beauty of an assembly it is, a restoration of a 1920's windmill which bears the weathered legend "The Aermotor Chicago." The oil box, which holds the quart or so of oil to lubricate the gears up there, leaks, that's the only thing wrong with it, said Coffin. But the assembly is running quietly and there are no problems, despite the lead, the pair assured the press.

The rig rests atop a slant - sided structure made from old wood, another example of the recycling the pair practices. Two sides of the structure have doorways and you can't go far inside the structure before bumping into a big four - sided wall made from weathered wood.

Inside that wall is a hole 17 feet deep where Coffin, Payne and their friends have been turning shovelfuls of dirt into a bucket, hauling them up slowly on a pulley and traveling a couple of feet downward each day toward water.

Once they hit water, they will install a pump that in turn is rigged to a pushrod under the windmill's blades. The blades go 'round, turn an affair that looks like an automobile crankshaft which strokes the pushrod up and down and that, in turn, works the pump.

Water from the well will feed animals and irrigate a garden. The pair decided to build the windmill because "we thought windmills are neat," said Coffin.

"The wind makes it work every day. I haven't seen a day in the month it has been up that it has not been operating," said Coffin. He is also fascinated by the antique aspect of his hobby. There is a set of flat blades in the shed which dates back to the 1890's or early 1900's, he said.

Both young men are students at Foothill High School where their hobby complements their school work. Coffin is in a metal shop class and Payne, a city boy from the Rosepoint tract near Sycamore Road, studies drafting design.

A new pitch

Cigarettes, smog and your lungs

Local schoolchildren will soon be learning about air pollution — including harmful effects of smoking — thanks to a new Lung Association project.

The Lung Association of Alameda County is breaking with its traditional "low profile" to start an "Eco - Logic" program in the Valley. A pilot program was popular last year in the Berkeley - Oakland area.

The program is being started because the Valley is a well - known smog basin, mostly thanks to auto traffic which pours through the area each day. When the ground air heats up but is kept down by a layer of cooler air over it, the classic inversion pattern develops. The area drowns in its own pollution until the wind picks up and blows it away.

"Doctors can tell when there's been a bad day," asserts Mary Hardy, a volunteer who is working on the Eco - Logic project.

"Three or four days later, they get a lot of calls on respiratory problems."

Studies have shown that people live longer in pollution - free areas. she said. Particles, unburned hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides in the air raise the carbon monoxide level in the blood, forcing the heart to work harder, and irritate lung cells, leading to colds, emphysema and cancer.

Although there have been several smog alert days in the Valley — days on which people should not engage in sports or pedal bikes — even days when the danger is not so extreme can be poisonous for some people.

Cars are the worst polluters, according to Bill Moore, a Lung Association member who is working on solar thermal power research at Sandia Laboratory in Livermore.

Moore predicts that nuclear power plants will be supplying a fifth of our power by the middle 1980's and that solar power won't come into its own for 20 years or more.

But, he says, pollution from factories and power plants is nothing compared to the poison that spews forth from cars.

An unexpected source of local pollution is the dust raised from gravel quarrying in the Valley. Dust from overgrazed land also raises the percentage of irritating particles in the air, he said.

Moore observed that local bikeways almost invariably are built by the sides of roads. "You're breathing that crud (from auto exhaust) right into your lungs and doing great damage!" he said.

Just what it looks like to be breathing "crud" — from air pollution and especially from cigarettes — will be dramatically illustrated to the school children with a "lung" demonstration. A cigarette is placed in the neck of an empty plastic shampoo bottle, along with a wad of cotton to collect the tar.

By squeezing the bottle, children can make it "breathe" like a lung.

The brown accumulation inside the bottle always shocks them, Mary Hardy reports with satisfaction.

"We have lots of materials to use in the classroom," she says. "The kids are always very interested."

Anyone who would like to work in a classroom as a volunteer is invited to take the Lung Association's 20 - hour training course. It will be Tuesdays and Thursdays, Oct. 19, 21, 26 and 28, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Alameda County Education Center, 685 A St., Hayward.

Peggy Sugars in in charge of the training sessions. She may be contacted at 893-5474 for an enrollment form and further information.

School trustee quest should end tonight

Pleasanton Joint School District board members will hold public interviews commencing at 7 this evening to select a trustee to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Guy Clark, who resigned recently.

The candidates will meet at 7 to draw for order of interview. Each will meet with trustees for up to 20 minutes.

The six were picked from an original applications list of 15 and include Mary Blackstone, 3513 Churchill Court; James Griffen, 3036 Chardonnay Drive; Candy Ingram, 863 Palomino Drive; Dennis Reidy, 4144 Sharab Court; Carol Rogers, 327 Amador Court, and Ron E. Schneider, 650 Orofino Court.

Following interviews, trustees hope to come to a decision and announce Dr. Clark's successor tonight.

The successful candidate will serve through next March at which time he or she will have the option to seek a full term.

In a special meeting Friday, trustees pared the list to six with Schneider and Rogers being the choice of all four present trustees. Ingram, Reidy and Blackstone were selected by three.

Candidates may sit through the public interviews of the others or leave, as they wish. However, interviews will involve just the candidate scheduled and board members.

The six candidates and their occupations are as follows: Blackstone, housewife and member of District Title I committee and president of Blue Angels at Veterans Hospital; Griffen, senior manufacturing engineeer for Accurax of Mountain View; Ingram, director of Hotline; Reidy, real estate salesman; Rogers, housewife and active in PTA; Schneider, cost analyst with Lockheed.

Two lane crossing leads in Las Positas poll

PLEASANTON — The final day of ballot counting in the Las Positas overpass poll yesterday found 10 more ballots added and a new development which could change the shape of the results to some degree.

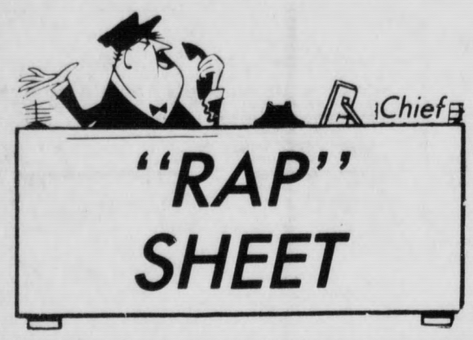
The 10 official ballots brought the poll's total to 306 votes. The overwhelming winner is alternative number four which received a total of 137 votes. This alternative favored a two lane overcrossing plus bicycle and pedestrian lanes and would cost an estimated $1.6 million.

The other alternatives in the city poll were: 1, no overcrossing; 2, pedestrian crossing only, $400,000 estimated cost; 3, pedestrian crossing only which can be modified to accept an addition for vehicles, $800,000;, 5, a four lane overcrossing plus pedestrian and bike lanes, $2.5 million; and 6, a full interchange with four lanes, pedestrian and bike lanes and on and off ramps to I-680, $5 million.

In a development yesterday related to the poll, Nina Sanchez explained to a City Hall official yesterday that all of the 27 votes which she turned in Friday should be counted for alternative six, the full interchange.

If the votes are counted — there was no official word yesterday from City Hall as to whether or not they would be counted — it would move alternative six up from last place to third place in the poll.

The current standings after alternative four's first place finish are: second place, alternative two, 67 votes; third, alternative one, 32 votes; fourth, altenrnative three, 28 votes, fourth, alternative five, 26 votes and sixth, alternative six, 16 votes.



Suspect in Pleasanton shooting incident surrenders

PLEASANTON — An 18-year-old Dublin man, sought in connection with shootings that damaged property in Dublin and Pleasanton, surrendered to police here Sunday.

Dennis James Yamnitsky, 18, of 6723 Evansburg Lane in Dublin, was booked at Santa Rita Jail on suspicion of assault with firearms on inhabited dwellings following the arrest.

Yamnitsky was sought for questioning after a shotgun was fired three times into a van in Dublin Saturday morning, and an upstairs bedroom window to a Redwood Court home in Pleasanton was blown out with a single shotgun blast shortly afterwards.

According to reports, Robert Ziegler of 8338 Vomac Road in Dublin heard an explosion and looked out to see a man firing a shotgun at his son's van. The man fled as Ziegler approached.

A few minutes later, the Kenneth Leland Shove family awoke to a loud noise, and found that an upstairs bedroom window to their 3990 Redwood Court home in Pleasanton had been shattered by a shotgun blast. A dark green Ford Mustang was seen accelerating from the area.

After questioning the witnesses, police attempted to locate Yamnitsky but discovered he had left town.

At 3 p.m. Saturday, Yamnitsky called Pleasanton police and asked if they had found the gun. When Sgt. Gary Moore replied that they had indeed, the suspect asked what the charges were against him, and then asked the sergeant's advice. "Turn yourself in," Moore advised.

So at 6:30 a.m. Sunday morning, Yamnistky walked into the Pleasanton police station and gave a signed statement. In it, he said he went to the Ziegler home to pick up some clothes and saw his ex-girlfriend there.

As he was driving home, he said he became "madder and madder." He went home, got his shotgun and four shells, and allegedly fired three blasts into the van before leaving the scene, police reported.

He said he drove to the Shove home, and fired once at an upstairs bedroom window, police said. He then drove his green Mustang to Los Angeles, where he later called police.

Officers recovered a Savage brand 12-gauge shotgun, spent shell casing and a Fleetwood Mac record album on the front lawn of the Redwood Court home.

A spokesman for the district attorney's office said a formal charge would be issued later in the week.

Chase pnds in accident, then arrest

LIVERMORE — One man was slightly injured when a 14-year-old boy, attempting to outrun police in his mother's Datsun 260Z, lost control of the car and struck another vehicle at the intersection of Murrieta and Portola streets early Saturday.

According to reports, officers Laurence Anderson Jr. and Mike Newton were on routine patrol when they spotted a car on Algonquin Avenue driving without its lights on. When police activated their lights and tried to pull it over, the car sped off.

Speeds of up to 70 mph were reached as police followed the car 1½ miles through city streets. The suspect vehicle fishtailed several times and almost hit parked cars in the area, police said.

The chase ended when the suspect vehicle collided with Elmer Arthur Tidmarsh's car. Tidmarsh, 46, of South Front Road, sustained cuts and bruises to his left leg, police reported. Both cars suffered major damage.

The 14-year-old driver admitted taking the car, and had a prior joyriding offense. The youth's mother signed a stolen auto complaint after she learned her son had taken it.

Burglary suspect found hiding in closet

LIVERMORE — While hunting for clues to a just - committed burglary in a North K Street apartment, officer Richard Sibley opened a bedroom closet door and found the biggest clue of all — the suspect.

Mildred Elizabeth Ayen returned to her apartment early Sunday and found it ransacked. Sibley responded, and began searching for any clues the burglar might have left.

When he opened an upstairs bedroom closet door, Sibley saw a boy standing there, attempting to hid behind clothes. The youth was arrested.

The suspect told police he had run away from home two nights earlier and needed a place to stay. He knew Ayen, since they belonged to the same church.

A check and cash worth $30 were stuffed into a box in the closet where the suspect had hid. In his possession were codeine pills, small change, and three lighters he had taken, poiice said.

The suspect was released to his parents.

Fairgrounds worker beaten near racetrack

PLEASANTON — A maintenance man at the county fairgrounds was beaten into unconsciousness because he couldn't open a locked gate for three men to leave, police reported.

Acevedo Guillermo of Komandorski Village told police he was driving his cart around the outside of the track Friday evening when three men drove up next to him. One man ran towards the Rose Avenue while the other two asked Guillermo if he could let them out. When he told them he didn't have the key, the men began beating Guillermo.

Police responded and found Guillermo unconsciousness, wedged under the cart his attackers had pushed over on top of him. Gas had leaked down and soaked Guillermo, police said.

He was treated for a broken nose, two black eyes, facial cuts, and bruised ribs, legs and back at Valley Memorial Hospital. There are no suspects in the attack.

State grads fall below U.S. average

State schools chief Wilson Riles said today that for the first time, college - bound 1976 California high school students fell below the national averages in verbal and mathematics scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), but the rate of decline is slowing.

"California's drop below the national average is disappointing to all Californians, of course, but it points up the need to begin reforming our junior and senior high schools to ensure that our students get a solid grounding in the academic fundamentals by the time they graduate," Riles said.

Legislation embodying a plan for such reform has been vetoed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. Riles noted that the plan, Reform of Intermediate and Secondary Education (RISE) would provide for development of at least minimum competencies in English and mathematics.

According to the College Entrance Examination Board report, California students followed the national trend in slowing down the rate of decline for test scores, Riles. said.

The report, California College - Bound Seniors, 1975-76, summarizes the data compiled from the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), Achivement Tests and Student Descriptive Questionnaire records of more than 100,000 students who registered to take "the college boards" while they were in high school. As a group, the students comprise more than one-third of the state's 1976 high school graduates and more than two-thirds of those graduates now entering college.

Highlights of the report show:

— 1975-76 seniors earned more SAT scores below last year's averages and fewer scores above last year's averages as the SAT verbal and mathematical score averages declined five and three points, respectively, below their 1974-75 levels.

— For the first time, due to even smaller declines at the national level, California SAT-verbal and mathematical score averages fell below the national averages.

— English composition, Biology, Mathematics Level 2, and Spanish achivement test score averages of 1975-76 sneiors were higher than those of 1974-75 seniors, while Mathematics Level 1, American History, and French achivement test score averages were lower.

— For the second consecutive year, men had higher SAT scores, including higher SAT-verbal scores, but women had markedly higher scores on the Test of Standard Written English.

— For the fourth consecutive year, more women than men took the SAT.

— More than 27 per cent of the women and about 26 per cent of the men belong to an ethnic minority, an increase of two per cent in both groups.

— As college costs continue to rise, about one-third of the students have estimated parents' contributions of less than $600, and about one-fifth have estimated parents' contributions over $3,900.

— Students' estimates of their parents' incomes were slightly higher than in 1974-75: less than one-third estimated incomes below $12,000; approximately one-third estimated incomes between $12,000 and $20,000 and more than one-third estimated incomes over $20,000.

— About 83 per cent of the students said they were in the top two - fifths of their high school class, compared to 85 per cent of the 1974-75 seniors.

— More than two-fifths of the women intend to major in either health and medical fields, business and commerce, or education; almost two-fifths of the men intend to major in engineering, health and medical fields or business and commerce.

On SAT-verbal, California score averages dropped from 435 to 430 for 1975-76 while the scores of those in the entire western region dropped from 439 to 433. Throughout the Nation, the score average dipped from 434 to 431.

On SAT - mathematical, California score averages dropped three points to 470 while score averages in the western region dipped one point to 475 and the national average remained at 472.

Achivement test score averages for some 30,000 1975-76 California seniors reflect a large increase in the English Composition Test Score average. However, average scores on the similar Test of Standard Written English, taken by 100,000 of the college - bound seniors, did not show a corresponding increase.

Lilly of the Valley

It's all over for another year. The pros and cons will be evaluated to be put to the best advantage for next year's "Pleasanton Daze."

They were all pretty tired from a long day's work when they turned out for the Saturday night barbecue at the Fairgrounds, but merchants did an excellent job of supporting one of their functions. The 300 steaks were sold out. The Bicentennial Band gave another of its outstanding performances even though the entire band was not with Jerry Lapinski, director. Too bad since the popular band as well as other activities, were recorded on video tape to be seen later, hopefully, on a local television program.

The success of the week's events can only be determined by talking with various merchants. Some say it was the best they have seen. Others felt it was very bad and then there were those who said they didn't sell much, but they felt it was "good exposure" to Pleasanton and perhaps some people might return to shop at a later date.

The arts and crafts people were also having their ups and downs, some were doing "great" others "doing nothing" and disappointed. A lot of the street business, I would say, could be determined a success as to the merchandise offered for the price being asked.

Some merchandise was quite reasonable while others, for what was offered, were out of line.

Perhaps too many participants take the attitude of trying to make a killing by overpricing their merchandise and end up making nothing while those who are reasonalbe do well by volume selling.

The art auction, unfortunately was not the success it could have been. However, it was decided even though participation was very low, the event would be part of the "Daze" again next year.

Chairpersons, Billie Schmer and Phyllis Wentworth, are to be highly complimented for their hard labors extended into coordinating the event. Theirs was not an easy job to undertake. Each year it gets a little bigger with more merchants participating and the girls trying to please all. A task that is impossible to perform.

The shopping centers are also entitled to a round of applause for putting more effort into offering activities in their centers. Sales may not have been as high as most would like, however, many people were exposed to stores they "didn't even know existed." That alone is an accomplishment.

Participants in the entertainment end of the fair also did an outstanding job.

Although the weather at times looked threatening, it did not keep away the crowds for the two days of street fair. Both days saw good crowds of people.

Frankly, I'm one who would like to see no drinking allowed on the streets of Pleasanton at any time. It certainly doesn't add atmosphere to any event. And particularly with a bar in almost every block on Main Street, sloppy drinkers are not needed to line the streets with their abusive language. If they want to drink, they might sit in one of those bars or their home and let the populace enjoy a Pleasanton event without their cluttering the streets.

Harmony with yoga

Evening with Anthropos presents "The Yoga Path to Harmony of Body and Soul" with Louise Devoto Wednesday, Sept. 29 from 8 to 10 p.m. at 1814 Catalina Ct., Livermore.

The program is open to the public at $2 per person.

Mrs. Devoto is a housewife and mother who took a course in yoga four years ago, curious about it as a physical exercise. Now she says "I do yoga exercises through the day."

She believes yoga develops all parts of the body and is more natural exercise than ballet. For her yoga has meant more than physical well-being: "I found for myself the harmony between physical and spiritual."

Participants in Wednesday's program should wear slacks, since the lecturer will help the audience assume some of the yoga positions.

Fine arts winners for Livermore's Festival '76

FREE FOAM — THIRD IN POTTERY
Artist Caroline Foote: 'I am working a lot with water patterns recently, this one is very frothy. The material is porcelain clay colored in shades from black to white with oxides, then pressed into the pattern before firing.'

KEYHOLE ROCK, MENDOCINO — LARPD PURCHASE AWARD
Artist Shirley Bray: 'I sketched this scene on location while vacationing at Mendocino, then painted the watercolor with a wet-in-wet technique in transparent colors. I prefer to paint traditional land and seascapes in a realistic style — this is a typical example.'

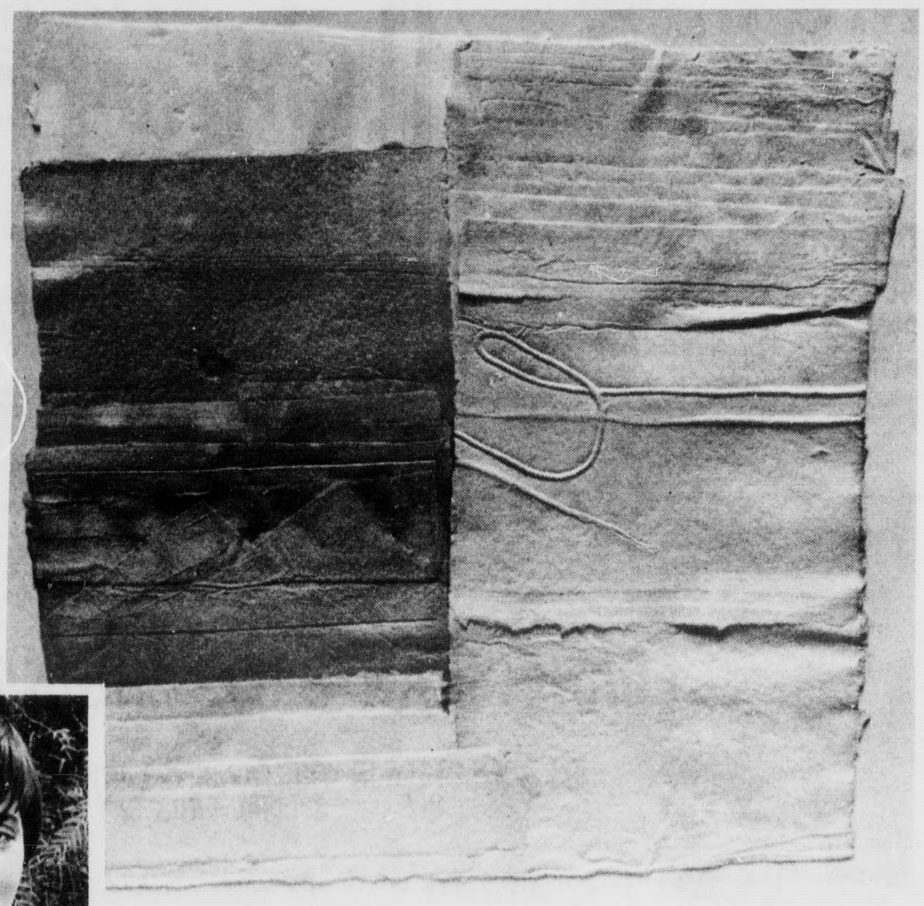
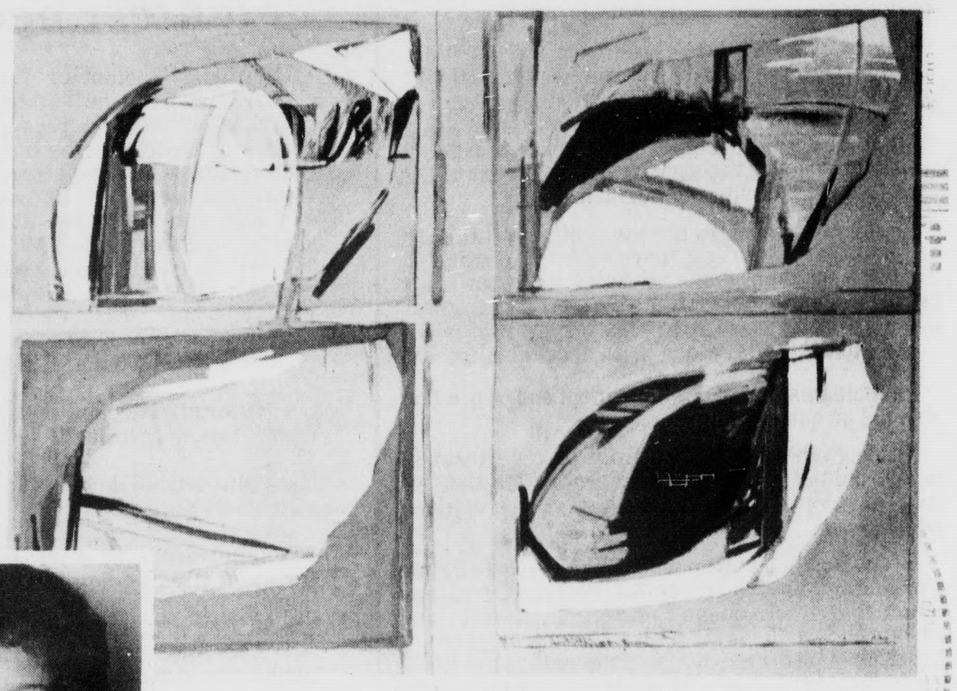
Jean McKenna





YONDER, FROM THE WINDOW
—SECOND IN ABSTRACT
Artist Peggy Frank: 'I like bold forms and have always been attracted to abstract impressionism. I put my whole body into the initial gesture (stroke) on the canvas which creates a dynamic element. The mode makes me feel strong myself.'

UNTITLED — FIRST IN NON-OBJECTIVE
Artist Karen Jenkins: 'The material for this work is handmade paper embossed with a press and colored with inorganic pigments (shades of off-white and light blue). It was the last of five made at the end of an exhausting day, so the composition was less planned and more spontaneous..

SCHEMATICS — CITY OF LIVERMORE PURCHASE AWARD
Artist Don Larson: 'The symbolism of this graphic is built around radio communication circuitry; I used to be a ham radio operator. See the microphone, sound waves and blocks (bottom left) which are a translation of Morse Code. I use India ink and an opaque paint called gouache.'

FIRE AND ICE
CITY PURCHASE AWARD
Artist Lee Plato Smith: "I consider myself a painter in textiles. The motif is from Indian rock paintings at Santa Barbara, the technique is my own patterned after that of the molas of Central America."

Opening lead — K ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South ruffed the third spade and studied the whole play of the hand. He felt certain that West would hold the king of diamonds and his problem was to avoid the loss of a diamond, a club and his contract.

He decided to work out a way to use dummy's fourth spade to throw West in the lead and end play him.

He started to run off all his trumps. West discarded a spade on the second lead and the six of diamonds on the third lead. Meanwhile, East had been doing some thinking of his own. South was not planning to ruff anything in dummy. Hence, his hand must consist of two spades, six trumps, two diamonds and three clubs. In that case he could afford to chuck a club and dropped the queen. South played out his last two trumps.

West saw what was happening and dropped his nine and jack of diamonds to blank his king. A club and diamond were played from dummy and East let two of his baby diamonds go.

The ace and king of clubs were cashed and South was in dummy for a three-card ending. Dummy held a spade, diamond and club. West held one of each suit also, but South did not know that. As far as South could tell West might well be holding a spade and two diamonds.

South decided that he was. He led dummy's spade, chucked his club and was down one when West was able to lead a club to his partner.

Ask the Jacobys

North opens one spade, South responds two clubs, North jumps to three notrump, South bids four clubs. Our reader wants to know if that four-club bid is a force.

The answer is yes. South is probably interested in getting to a slam.

Mats await San Ramon opener

Granada High inched closer to the top spot while Livermore dropped three notches in this week's East Bay Prep Football Poll released yesterday.

The Mats, with 146 points and two first place votes, remained in third position, although only 4½ points shy of second place Clayton Valley. Alhambra kept possession of number one after pulling out a tough 19-13 win over San Ramon.

Granada, whose record now stands at 3-0 after Friday's 14-9 drubbing of Liberty, travels to the Wolves' field this Friday for an important EBAL opening contest.

After losing a last - minute 14-13 decision to Manteca, Livermore High slipped from seventh to tenth. The 'Pokes garnered 68 points. Livermore opens up the seaon on their home field against Foothill.

Dublin remained in the 13th spot despite an impressive 36-13 win over Acalanes, who received an honorable mention. The Gaels were just one point away from 12th place Pittsburg. Dublin opens play at home against California.

San Ramon jumped into the poll for the first time after giving Alhambra all they could handle. The Wolves, ranked 14th, appear ready to challenge for the EBAL title once again after dropping into near promiscuity last year.

In the EBAL's other opener, Amador Vally entertains Monte Vista. The Dons are coming off a convincing 21-0 win over Menlo - Atherton, but are once again hurting with injuries. Running back Mike Goodison may be able to play by Friday night, but senior quarterback and split end John Sevo will probably have to miss a lot of action. Goodison sprained his ankle in Amador's first game of the season, while Sevo just recently added his name to the casualty list after breaking his collarbone in the last minutes of the Menlo - Atherton game.

The Mustangs, on the other hand, came out of the pre-season undefeated, with one tie in three games, and may just prove to be a contender also. The 'Stangs beat Menlo, 14-6, last Friday evening behind Kurt Kanellis' 86-yard kickoff return and touchdown. The Alamo gang defense was stingy, limiting Menlo to 70 yards rushing and 60 yards passing. That may prove to be a problem for Amador coach Fred Wood, whose Dons have suffered a dose of offensive ineptness in their pre-season encounters.

Granada's duel with San Ramon is the first of many "crucials" that will dot the schedules this season. Vance Rushing is in top form for the Mats, the senior ball - carrier pegging it 132 yards on 20 carries against Liberty. The Wolves are led by running backs Charlie Brice and Randy Huddleston, along with a solid defense that kept Alhambra in check. The Wolves will have a tough time stopping Rushing, though, after giving up 211 yards rushing to Alhambra.

California High attempts to make a name for itself against Dublin whe they take on the Gaels, but their chances are slim. The Dublin powerhouse offensive attack is led by unstoppable Jim Boulware, who rushed for 301 yards against Acalanes. Chuck Gangnuss and Jim Batchelor also pick up handsome gains for the Gaels, whose only problem seems to be basic defense. The Grizzlies may have their best shot at scoring in the game, but their questionable defense will surely take a beating.

Livermore High will tangle with a surprisingly tough Foothill squad. Foothill finally put together what coach John Lupoi was hoping for all season, an offensive display and 33-13 win over Memorial High last Friday night. They led 26-0 at the half. The 'Pokes, whose Goliathan defense may get a stiff test against the Falcons, will try and move the ball offensively with more succss. Quarterback Rick Gildea and backs Pat Powles and Rich Lawson are capable of marking up big gains, but thus far this season it is the defense that carried the 'Pokes to their 2-1 record.

When it was all over, though, Granada High's girls team came out way on top of the girls competition while Jesuit High of Sacramento topped all runners in the boys division.

Ali, Norton face off tonight for title

NEW YORK — Muhammad Ali, who promises he will win within five rounds, and Ken Norton, who intends to make Ali quit, will try and back their boasts tonight at Yankee Stadium.

Ali is the 8-5 favorite to win his 19th of 20 world heavyweight championship appearances.

Another favorite is the weather, forecast to be good for the first fight in Yankee Stadium in 17 years and the first outdoor heavyweight title fight in the United States since 1962.

Should those who figure the weather be wrong, the rain date is Wednesday. Two days of rain "and we all go to church and pray," said John F.X. Condon, the publicity chief for Madison Square Garden which is promoting the fight in association with Top Rank, Inc.

It rained in New York Monday as both fighters stayed in seclusion until the weigh-in scheduled for 11 a.m. EDT today at a mid-town Manhattan hotel.

The closed-circuit telecast to 300 locations in the United States and Canada is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. PDT, with the main event set for 7:30 p.m.

"Don't be surpised if it only goes one round. And I promise it won't go more than four," Ali said at his Catskill training camp last week.

Sunday, following his final workout at a mid-Manhattan gym, the champion said, "It shall not go over five. It will be another miracle. Buy tickets."

"I'm makin' him quit. You wanna bet," Norton said at a training session. "He knows I can hurt him."

Norton rose to boxing prominence when he broke Ali's jaw and won a split 12-round decision March 31, 1973, in San Diego. Ali claimed the jaw was broken in the second round and that Norton still was not able to knock him down. Norton scoffs: "He broke the jaw in the last round."

Norton nearly ended Ali's career at Inglewood on Sept. 10, 1973. After 11 rounds, one official favored Norton, one Ali and one had the fight even. Ali won the final round and gained a split decision.

Since then, Norton went for a title shot in which he was stopped in two rounds by George Foreman in Caracas, Venezuela, March 24, 1974. Six months later, Ali met Foreman and became champion a second time on an eighth-round knockout in Kinshasa, Zaire.

And now it's Ali-Norton III, a series Ali wants to wrap up the way he did his series with Joe Frazier. Frazier won the first of three bouts, with Ali taking the next two.

"I'm the champion," said Ali, at 34 three years older than the challenger.

"You must remember that those first two fights weren't for the title."

Ali, who stands 6-3 and is expected to weigh about 221 pounds, goes into the fight with a record of 52-2-0, with 37 knockouts. Norton, 6-3 and about 215, has a 37-3-0 record, with 30 knockouts. Besides losing to Ali and Foreman, Norton was knocked out by Jose Luis Garcia in the eighth round July 2, 1970. He avenged that loss with a fifth-round knockout Aug. 14, 1975.

The champion is guaranteed $6 million, plus $100,000 expenses and will get 50 per cent of all revenues after $9 million. He was guaranteed $5 million for the Foreman fight and $4.5 million against a percentage for the third Frazier fight.

DRUGS

In a society which is heavily reliant upon drugs to cure all their ills and remove all their stresses, there seems to be an underlying dissatisfaction with this approach toward health. The body does the healing, not the drugs. The spine and the nervous system play an important part in the correction of the cause of the disorder. In Specific Chiropractic we don't rely on drugs to get sick people well; we rely on the inherent capacity of the body to heal itself.

If you would like to learn more about this natural way to better health, please call for information.

(l to r) Rochelle, Will and Kathleen Hayes display Will's sports tee-shirt collection. The hat in Will's hands has several Olympic pins attached to it.

Gold medal work nets collection

PLEASANTON — Will Hayes, age nine years, has collected approximately 60 sports - related tee-shirts from around the world.

The choicest came from various Olympics. Hayes' father, Bill, brought the first one from the Mexico Olympics in 1968. But as soon as Will was old enough he began doing his own collecting.

Hayes attended the Munich and Montreal Olympics with his parents and added a lot to his collection.

So far, he has eight shirts from Olympics, two each from the pan American, European and Kennedy Games, three from AAU and one that was given to him by a U.S. decathlon champion.

Some shirts are bought or traded and others are donated. Several have been sent from former students of his father who teaches math at Dublin High School.

Hayes has obtained autographs from sports celebrities plus two official Olympic swimsuits.

While attending the Olympics in Montreal he began collecting the decorative pins that are given to athletes. He would trade several pins of little value for one worth more. Through this system of upgrading he now has an assortment worth about $300. They are pinned on a cap. Some of the 20 or so pins he has accumulated are quite rare.

Contra Costa County political notes

Cityhood foes raise their voices

DANVILLE — NO Incorporation, organized last week, has mailed out its first brochures opposing cityhood for San Ramon, Alamo and Danville as proposed on the November ballot.

And the leader of the opposition calls it "distorted."

"If revenues from the special funds will be sufficient to support the proposed city, why aren't Lafayette and Pleasant Hill living on their subventions as they told the voters they would before incorporation?" the brochure asks.

The pro-incorporation group, Taxpayers for Local Control, has said that a new city could operate on state subvention money (from sales tax, cigarette tax, etc.) without charging a property tax.

"I think that (the brochure) is the most distorted thing I have ever heard," said Beverly Lane, chairman of the Town Now committee of Taxpayers for Local Control. "Both Pleasant Hill and Lafayette are working in a zero tax rate. They are living on their subventions."

"Our area is much richer than Lafayette in terms of subventions," she said.

Bert Frazier, publicity director for NO Incorporation, said the brochure didn't mean that the two cities were collecting taxes.

"Our intimation was that they weren't relying totally on subvention money," he said. Pleasant Hill and Lafayette are eligible for state revenue sharing money, Frazier added. He acknowledged that a new city would be also.

Mrs. Lane also challenged statements in the brochure on police protection.

The brochure said: "Proponents (of incorporation) propose to spend nearly $1 million on a police force of 24 men and dump the state and county officers now guarding our community. This, in effect, is a $1 million ripoff of the taxpayers who must continue paying their share of the cost of maintaining the sheriff's department and the California Highway Patrol without receiving the direct benefit afforded by the present setup.

"Some analysts view the proposed $1 million police budget as buying the services of only seven additional men. If that is the case, these seven would come pretty high; nearly $143,000 each.

"What the opponents (of incorporation) are trying to do is to throw out a lot of distorted figures," said Lane.

"I think at least some of the people talking against (incorporation) are way off base," she said. The CHP would still patrol Interstate 680, and be on call for the community."

"What we would have is at least 24 police officers who stay in the valley and are not rotated out. We will have police here when we need them."

The figure of $1 million for police protection the area already receives is wrong Lane said.

"They (anti - incorporationists) are talking as if that $1 million is new. The money will be the same that would have been used by the county for the police," she said.

Instead of the county receiving the subvention money, it will go to San Ramon Valley and it will be able to control the operation Lane said.

Both Frazier and Mrs. Lane agree the incorporation battle is definitely warming up.

I'm welcoming them (NO Incorporation) into the battle. It will make it nice and spicy."

Ross in race

SAN RAMON — Jan Ross of 285 Casper Pl. is running for the proposed city council that would represent Alamo, Danville and San Ramon if their incorporation is approved. Her home will be her headquarters.

This is her first attempt for office outside an organized group. But she has been active in community affairs for the past nine years; often in leadership capacities.

Ross is a graduate of U.C. Berkeley and is working on her masters. She has a lifetime credential for elementary school teaching but is presently on leave.

She invites anyone interested in having a coffee for her where she can discuss local issues and define her qualifications to call 828-4447.

"I like people and like to talk. It helps me stay in touch with community needs," Ross said.

The five subjects she would most like to speak about are: taxation, why incorporate, benefits to valley, planning and zoning with a concern for pollution control, and police protection.

"There are many others that are offshoots of these subjects or that cluster around them," she said. "All are vitally important to our community."

She gave a speech Thursday morning during a Toastmaster's International meeting. Ross is a member of this organization plus a great many others.

On Oct. 13 there will be a candidate night at the Education Center on Old Orchard Dr. in San Ramon. 7:30 sharp. This will be sponsored by the San Ramon Valley American Association of University Women and the League of Women Voters. It is open to the public and there is no charge.

On Oct. 19 a coffee will be given at the home of Jane Wooten, 2328 Alameda Diablo, Danville, 8 p.m. It is open to the public.

Ross says local issues and community needs will be discussed at all of these meetings.

CC County Child Panel enrolling

MARTINEZ — The Child Health and Disability Prevention Program is looking for advisory board members.

The official terms of five members of the board will expire in October.

Dr. Maxine Sehring, CHDP director, says the program's purpose is to offer equal opportunities for children belonging to lower income families.

"In essence it says children should not be denied wellness care just because their parents are poor," said Sehring.

The advisory board is required by law to have 15 members, including five parents, educators, physicians and other health professionals. Official appointments are made by the County Board of Supervisors.

Interested persons should submit their names as candidates by Monday, Oct. 11. They should call 372-2685 or write to the Child Health and Disability Prevention Program at 702 Main St., Martinez.

Board members serve three-year terms and are reimbursed for necessary expenses like transportation and child care. The board meets one evening every other month and members serve on sub-committees which meet in the interim.

Reform taxes — or else

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mayor Pete Wilson said Monday that directors of the League of California Cities will ask the legislature to give major direct property tax relief to homeowners, renters and senior citizens.

Wilson, president of the league, said if the California Legislature refuses to approve the plan a 1978 ballot initiative would be sought.

The proposal would avoid any increase in state taxes, he said. Among its points:

— Ten per cent of state sales and income tax revenue as well as bank and corporation tax revenues would be used to increase the present homeowners' property tax exemption from $1,750 to $2,750.

— An amendment to the state constitution would be sought requiring a two-thirds vote of both the Senate and Assembly on any proposed tax increase.

— No reduction would be allowed in the present level of state support for local governments.

The increased property tax exemption would amount to a $120 savings for owners of a $40,000 house and a $95 tax credit to renters, Wilson said in a statement.

"We hope this will achieve the relief that is needed and, at the same time, will impose a more stringent test on both local and state legislators who seek to raise taxes in the future," added Wilson, saying he hoped Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. will also endorse the plan.

The League of California Cities will consider the proposal Oct. 17-20 at a meeting in San Diego.

EEOC sued; claim work dropped

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal court suit Monday accused the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission of attempting to get rid of its backlog of job discrimination cases by failing to investigate and conciliate such charges filed before fiscal 1974.

The class action brought on behalf of nearly 15,000 persons by Joseph Hall and Burnell Loggins, two black men, and the National Organization for Women says the EEOC has failed to perform its legally mandated duty.

It alleges that on Aug. 10, 1976, the agency issued "speedup procedures" for processing pre-fiscal 1974 claims. This move, it goes on, has violated the Civil Rights law and the Fifth Amendment rights of due process.

The individual plaintiffs contend their charges were never investigated.

The suit said Loggins received a letter from the EEOC Sept. 3 noting there was "no reasonable cause found to believe the allegations were true."

Loggins said he was never contacted by any investigator, nor given the chance to present witnesses or evidence.

By this speedup procedure, the EEOC intends and expects to close out about 15,000 charges by Sept. 30, the suit adds.

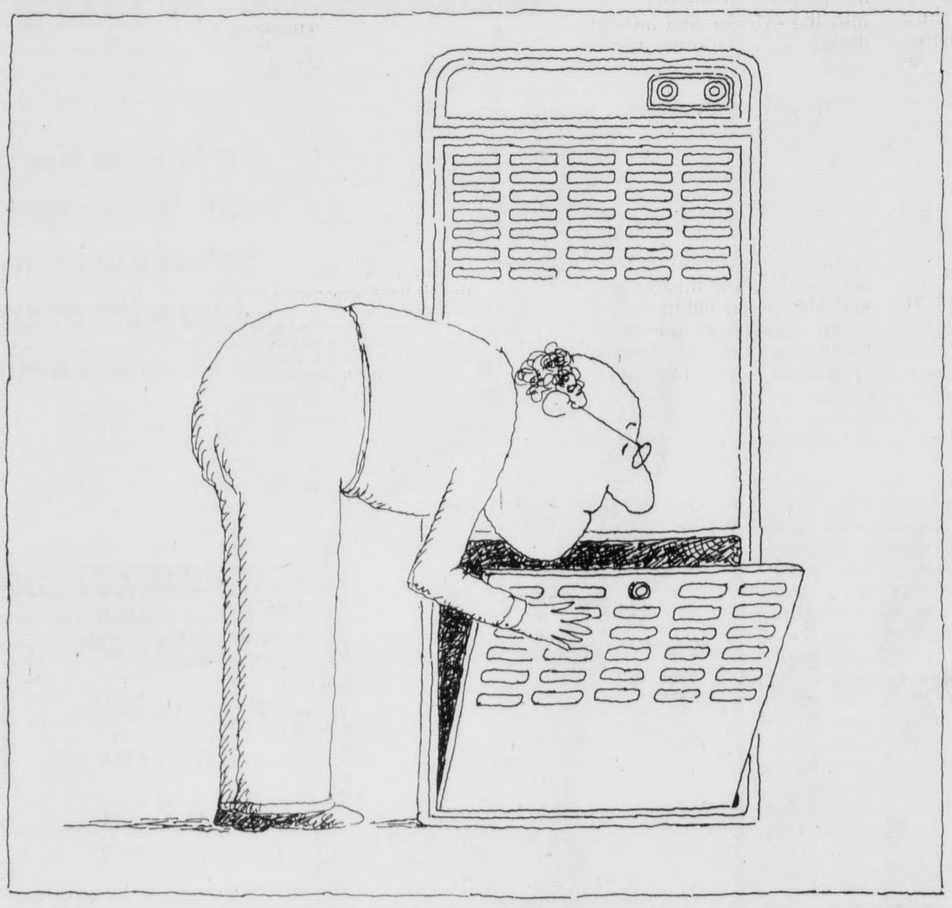
It said all pre-1974 charging parties have been sent a form letter which asks if they still want an investigation and says if the request is not renewed within 10 days, the case will be closed.

Besides failing to allow presentation of witnesses or evidence, the suit said, the new procedure also denies pre-1974 claimants the right to amend their charges as provided by the EEOC's own regulations.

The court was told EEOC makes no reasonable attempt to locate charging parties, does not require verification of information and makes no on-site visits.

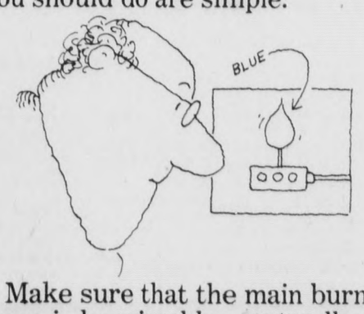
The suit asks the EEOC speedup procedures be ruled void and their use prohibited, that determinations already made under the new rules be reconsidered and that the agency be ordered to conduct adequate investigations and make bonafide conciliation efforts on charges.

It's time you and your gas furnace started doing things for each other.



Winter's coming. As it always does. And now is the time to check your gas furnace, so you can keep the home fires burning more efficiently.

For the most part, the things you should do are simple.

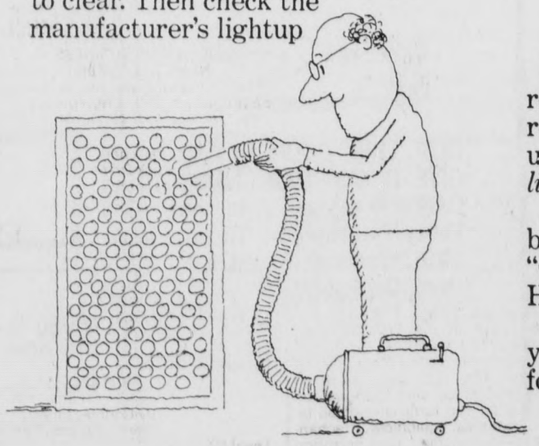


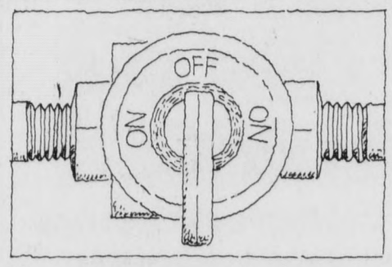
Make sure that the main burner flame is burning blue, not yellow. Otherwise, it may be using more gas, and producing less heat.

If you have a wall furnace, see that the area around the air openings and controls are free of lint and dust; if you see accumulations of what appear to be soot, you need the help of an expert.

If you have a central furnace, clean or replace the air filter now, and at least once more during the heating season. A clogged filter wastes energy and increases heating costs.

If the pilot is out, turn the thermostat to the lowest possible setting before relighting, make sure the main burner valve and the pilot valve are turned off and allow a few minutes for the gas to clear. Then check the manufacturer's lightup instructions which appear on most furnaces. Once the pilot is ignited, reset the thermostat to 68° or lower. If you're uneasy about it, call PG&E for assistance.





If your furnace needs parts or repairs, call a qualified furnace repair service. If you smell gas, call us. Never look for a gas leak with a lighted match or other flame.

For more information, ask for our booklets, "At Your Service" and "Gas and Electric Safety in Your Home," at your local PG&E office.

With just a little loving care, you and your furnace will be ready for a long, warm winter.

Americans need a livable house they can buy for under $35,000

(Bob Anderson is special projects editor of Family Circle magazine. With housing costs at an all-time high, he comments on assembly-line homes as possible alternatives to today's high-priced, site-built homes that the majority of Americans cannot afford.)

By Bob Anderson

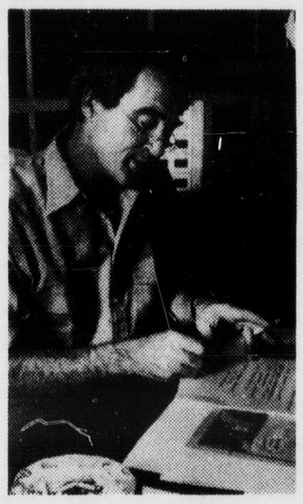
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The average site-built single family home of 1,400 square feet costs around $46,000. Only about 15 per cent of America's families can afford it. The other 85 per cent have effectively been priced out of the single-family home market.

Since 1972 and the onset of the inflationary spiral that resulted in these escalated home prices, the need has existed for an alternative to the post World War II development house that middle-income families can afford.

Over the past five years Family Circle Magazine has explored the various building options available for developing attractive, affordable housing. Site-built units were eliminated as a solution since construction costs on these homes cannot be kept within the $30,000-$35,000 range the average Family Circle reader can afford while still providing the space and rooms America's families have come to expect.

Factory - manufactured housing was attractive because of the construction and labor efficiencies developed by a successful mobile home industry that has perfected assembly-line home production.

Come rain or come shine, it takes an assembly-line home builder 3 to 5 days to complete a two-section, 1,420-square-foot mobile home. Unlike seasonal construction workers, mobile factory craftsmen are employed year-round. Since their salaries are based on a 12 month year, their wages work out to a lower cost per hour than the wages of construction workers — a dollar savings that translates into lowered labor costs for factory-built homes.



Robert Anderson

LIVING ROOM-DINING AREA of an assembly-line home of 1,325 square feet that may prove an answer for money-short home buyers. In addition, the home developed with manufacturers by Family Circle magazine designers also has three bedrooms, two full baths, a separate laundry room, utility room and seven closets. It is in the $22,000-$25,000 range, exclusive of land.

As fully decorated houses, mobile homes offer by far the best housing value on the market today. Since what you see is what you buy, unpredictable finishing costs are eliminated. Carpeting and other floor finishes are installed at the factory before walls are nailed in. Wall coverings, including paneling, are similarly factory-added.

A year ago Family Circle, with the cooperation of the Armstrong Cork Co., initiated a project with Golden West Homes of Santa Ana, Calif., and The Vindale Corp. of Dayton, Ohio, two of the country's most respected builders of production-line homes, to develop a truly affordable house with all the amenities our readership had come to expect in a livable house. The aim was to combine assembly line techniques with the best advantages of traditional site-built homes.

The resulting "Family Circle Good Value Home" is featured in the September Family Circle. It costs between $22,000 and $25,000, exclusive of land and depending upon where it's located. Not a prototype of a house for the future, the house can be seen and purchased now.

The 1,325-square-foot ranch house contains three bedrooms and two full baths, a living room with dining area, a family room-den, full-size kitchen with pantry, separate laundry room, a utility room and seven closets.

Included within the price of the house are the furnace, hot water heater, refrigerator, range, mullioned sash windows with screens, sheer curtains and draperies, cushioned flooring and carpet and all the wall finishes and paneling shown in the model.

Not included in the price are furnishings, but all furniture and accessories shown in the models can be purchased, as a package, at reasonable cost. The home meets all local building regulations and is fully insulated according to local requirements, thus accounting for some variations in base price.

The Good Value Home arrives in two main sections and can be set up in a mobile home community or, where zoning permits, placed on private land. Included in the quoted base price is shipping, assembly of the house on the land site by a representative of the manufacturer and hookup to water and power supplied.

While factory-manufactured housing can provide an attractive solution to today's housing needs, there are stigmas and local regulations, left from the days when mobile homes were flimsily built narrow trailers, that need to be overcome. Some localities do not allow mobile homes to be permanently mounted on private land. They require that these homes be located only in mobile home parks. These same local regulations also determine whether the house is taxed as personal property or as real estate. Before purchasing a mobile home, check the local zoning requirements of the area in which you choose to live.

Financing is not difficult to obtain for mobile homes although it usually is more costly than that obtained for a traditional site-built home. Whether the house is considered as real estate or personal property will affect the type of financing granted. If the home is considered real estate, you get a mortgage; if personal property, you apply for a chattel-type mortgage similar to that obtained for the purchase of a car.

The mobile home industry hopes that much of the concern regarding shoddy building practices will be eliminated by the federal construction standards that came into effect June 15, 1976. These standards, set up by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development with the help of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, cover both the construction and safety of mobile homes. They require that mobile home manufacturers submit detailed plans with specifications of each model made to the Design Approval Inspection Agency authorized by the federal government. Manufactured homes also are subject to inspection during the construction process.

However, as expressed by both manufacturers involved in the development of the Good Value Home, manufactured housing will never be fully rid of its negative image and truly become an alternative to development housing until mobile homes more closely resemble the site-built houses they hope to replace. This was the major thrust behind the planning that went into the exterior and interior design of the Family Circle home.

This was not designed as a mobile home. Rather, it is a house in which assembly-line techniques are utilized to keep construction costs to a minimum. Indeed, both Family Circle and the manufactured-home industry believe that how this home is accepted by the public will indicate whether mobile home technology can successfully be applied to non-mobile home living.
